ESRC Research Seminar Series

Children's Literacy and Popular Culture

Conference

Saturday 20th March 2004 at The University of Sheffield

This ESRC Research Seminar Series has consisted of six seminars which have each considered different aspects of popular culture and literacy e.g. media and new technologies. This conference draws together the major themes running throughout the series and explores the implications for educational policy and practice. There will be seminar sessions during the day in which work on various research projects relating to the role of popular culture in the literacy curriculum in Preschool, Primary, Secondary and Further Education will be disseminated. There will also be a number of interactive workshops that address the conference themes.
